HORSE AND CATTLE SALE YARDS, PARRAMATTA RAILWAY STATION.
The undersigned has recently erected upon the land adjoining the railway line, and in close proximity to the Parramatta Railway Station, a number of compact and substantial yards for the SALE BY AUCTION OF HORSES AND CATTLE.
Attached to the yards there are 12 acres of land which have been subdivided into paddocks. These arrangements have been made with strict regard for the convenience of both vendors and purchasers, and to secure facility for receiving at the yards, or forwarding therefrom by the railway, every description of stock.
The special attention of persons interested in the selling or purchasing of horses, milch cows, calves, &c., is directed to the eligible position of the yards, the site being chosen with a special view of securing the convenience of city and country buyers and sellers. There are eight arrivals daily from Sydney at the Parramatta stations, and eight departures from Parramatta to Sydney of trains by which passengers and stock can be conveyed, and country residents in the county of Cumberland can avail themselves of the advantages of road travelling to and from their homes to the yards the same day.
VENDORS
who may favour him with their patronage shall have strict attention paid to their interests.
PURCHASERS
attending the sales may rely upon receiving correct particulars and descriptions of the stock for sale.
EVERY CARE
and attention shall be given to cattle forwarded to the Yards for sale.

MEDICAL, CHEMICALS, ETC.

AUSTRALIAN OINTMENT still stands unrivalled for its wonderful cures. Covered pots, 1s and 1s 6d.

JOSEPHSON'S AUSTRALIAN OINTMENT. (PATENTED.)
Of a pure green colour, MADE FROM THE WILD PLANTS of the COLONY, and GUARANTEED FREE FROM ALL POISONOUS QUALITIES.
STANDS UNRIVALLED.
For all kinds of external sores—such as old wounds, chafings, sunburns, cracked lips and hands, sore heads, broken chilblains, soft corns, excoriations, &c., it is invaluable.
SORE EYES are cured instantaneously. In all cases the immediate relief from pain is really miraculous.
STIFFNESS of JOINTS is got rid of by one application.
"WHO WOULD SUFFER FROM BURNS AND SCALDS" when they can obtain such relief as JOSEPHSON'S AUSTRALIAN OINTMENT only can give?
"Swan Creek, near Grafton, 23rd February, 1874.
"About five weeks ago my wife was standing near the fireplace, when her muslin dress caught fire and blazed above her head, burning her arms and legs very much—in fact they were charred; there was no one with her to assist to put the fire out, the consequence being, parts of her body were charred quite black. I obtained some of Josephson's Australian Ointment, and applied to all the burnt parts, which gave her immediate relief from pain. Used the ointment constantly. In a week the young flesh and skin came on and she became quite well. I believe it a perfect miracle the way the ointment soothed her intense pain and effected such a clean beautiful cure.
"GEORGE WADE.
"Witness—H. WHITFORD."
Extract of a letter received from Messrs. Clarke, Hodgson, and Co.:—
"Dalby, 13th July, 1874.
"We must say the Ointment is the finest we have yet met with for all descriptions of sores, and we do not object to your using these remarks to promote its sale."
"Yours truly,
"CLARKE, HODGSON, AND CO."
"Dotswood, Queensland, November, 1871.
"The Australian Ointment you gave me is the only cure I have seen or used for the celebrated KENNEDY BOY. One or two bad ones I only dressed twice, and they are free from pain, and healing fast.
"Yours faithfully,
"WM. SMITH."
"To Mr. E. Row.—I enclose the letter I received from Mr. Wm. Smith, a friend of mine, the manager of Dotswood station, about fifty miles from Townsville. I sent him two pots of the Australian Ointment; he speaks very highly of it. Do what you like with this letter.

BEWARE! BEWARE!! BEWARE!!!
GREAT CAUTION
must be observed in buying
ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS,
as there are many imitations afloat.
But by purchasers seeing that all Plasters are enclosed in a wrapper with a Blue and Yellow Stamp, having the name of HENRY D. BRANDRETH, LIVERPOOL, thereon, and AUSTRALIA on each end, they will be sure of the Genuine.
BEWARE OF THE IMITATIONS,
and
SCAN CLOSELY BEFORE PURCHASING.
ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.
They are now unconditionally accepted by
HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF FAMILIES
as their approved curative for
CHEST AFFECTIONS, COUGHS, SORE THROATS, NERVOUS AFFECTIONS, AFFECTIONS AND DROPSY OF THE HEART, KIDNEY AFFECTIONS, PAINS AND WEAKNESS OF THE BACK, STITCHES and PAINS in the SIDE, and in LUMBAGO, altogether unrivalled as an outward application.
ELECTRIC CONDITION.
The peculiar phosphorescent light emitted by Allcock's Porous Plasters when separating from the muslin may be seen when taken off in the dark. This quality is supposed to be absorbed by the pores of the skin, causing an equilibrium of the circulation, acting equally upon the nervous fluid as upon the blood. We have sold over 50,000,000
of these plasters, and they are certified as innocent, yet wonderfully curative, by all. Where a plaster can give relief they never fail.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—TIMES, July 13, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See LANCET, December 31, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne "is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course, it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—MEDICAL TIMES, January 12, 1866.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a certain cure in cholera, dysentery, diarrhœa, colics, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—Caution.—None genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. Sole manufacturer, J. T. Davenport, 33, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury, London. The immense demand enables the proprietor to reduce the price; it is now sold in bottles, 1s 1½d., 2s 9d, 4s 6d, and 11s, containing double quantity hitherto.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.
WIDOW WELCH'S PILLS.
(KEARSLEY'S ORIGINAL.)
So justly celebrated for their peculiar virtues, are recommended to the notice of every lady (having obtained the sanction of most gentlemen of the medical profession) as a safe and valuable medicine in effectually removing obstructions, and relieving other inconveniences to which the female frame is liable, especially those which at an early period of life arise from want of exercise and general debility of the system; they create an appetite, correct indigestion, remove giddiness and nervous headache, and are eminently useful in wind disorders, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart; being perfectly innocent they may be used with safety in all seasons and climates. Price 2s 9d per box, of all chemists.
It is necessary, owing to numerous imitations, to warn the public that KEARSLEY'S is the only original receipt, and has been prepared by the Kearsley family over eighty years. Purchasers should see that each box is wrapped in white paper, and the name, "C. KEARSLEY" is engraved on the Government stamp.
Wholesale Agents:

and by Messrs. ELLIOTT, BROTHERS, Sydney.
Ask for "KEARSLEY'S," and see you get them.

A NEVER-FAILING REMEDY.—Dr. SCOTT'S BILIOUS AND LIVER PILLS, prepared without any mercurial ingredient, will be found invaluable to all who suffer from Bilious and Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Wind, Spasms, Giddiness, Dizziness of the Eyes, and many other symptoms which none but a sufferer can describe. For habitual Costiveness, as a family aperient medicine, and as a purifier of the blood, they are unequalled; mild in their operation, and grateful to the stomach; they create appetite, promote digestion, and strengthen the whole nervous system.
Prepared only by W. LAMBERT, Chemist, 8, King William-street, Charing Cross, London, England.
In boxes, 1s 1½d and 2s 9d.
Sold by all Chemists.
IMPORTANT CAUTION.—Be sure to ask for "Dr. Scott's Bilious and Liver Pills." If you ask for "Scott's Pills," you will get quite a different medicine; if you ask for "Bilious and Liver Pills," you will get a spurious compound, which, if taken, will not have the beneficial effects. The genuine are in a square green package.
It frequently occurs that druggists impose on their customers a "Scott's Pill," in an oval box, which is quite a different medicine, and causes much disappointment, as their medicinal effects are so opposite; therefore, see you get what you ask for.

HUNTER'S

OUR BRISBANE LETTER.

BRISBANE, SEPTEMBER 25.

THERE is in some part of England—I cannot tell you the precise locus in quo—a place called "Saffron Walden," a well sheltered spot, I am sure, with fertile land and rich meadows, and many substantial yeomen, with a plentiful sprinkling of landed gentry, and a general air of warm respectability and material comfortpervading the neighbourhood. I never was there, but I am quite sure that these must be among the least of its qualifications, or it never would have been selected by the Right Rev. Edward Wyndham Tufnell, quondam Bishop of Brisbane, as the scene of his future ministrations. No member of his former flock doubts, while they all hope, that the living is a good one, and they are consoled to know that the Church itself is ancient and possesses so much that is atractive to the well-ordered clerical mind of the old school, in the shape of carved stone and wood, monumental brasses, and memorial windows, that there is no probability of their former chief pastor having again to travel in search of comfortable and unquestioned retirement. But even good men have their enemies; and there are evilly-disposed persons who complain that, while the fact of the settlement of the Rev. Dr. Tufnell in this new living has reached Brisbane, no accompanying announcement is made that he has resigned the see, and that the members of the Churchof England are free to go to the election of a new bishop. But here again—they say—is consolation to be found in the surmise that by a convenientover-lapping of the emoluments of the two officesthe late revered President of the Diocesan Synod is enabled to exercise a corresponding amountof that charity to the deserving poor, for which he was so celebrated while amongst us. On the other hand, the Church of England in Queensland has been gradually drifting into such a condition of apathy and helplessness, from having a Bishop and no head—a body of clergy with an incumbent of the see and no chief pastor—a reputation to maintain as part and parcel of the Church which (rightly or wrongly) is said to be the chief bulwark of Protestantism, and no one to represent them in that noble phase of Christian work when the occasion came. I say that these evilly-disposed persons, asserting these things, further exhibit their ignorance and prejudice by asserting that no one in the least cares whether they have a bishop or not; and that whever the next may be, the inevitable coldness of his reception will damp his ardour and repress his energies.

Let me, however, before leaving the subject, say that there are those in the aforesaid Church whose very souls thirst for communion, in the true relations of a bishop and his people, with an able, moderate, self-sacrificing Christian chief pastor, such as is Dr. Barker, the Primatof Australasia, from whom we recently had a visit all too short. In my life I have seldom listened to an address such as he delivered to the assembled churchmen of Brisbane, so wise, so gentle, so replete with loving sympathy and moderate consel.

Last Saturday's Gazette contains another big shot at the dummies, in a proclamation levied against what are known as the Cecil Plains selections. The proclamation sets forth that "whereas applications to select land under 'the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1869' were some time since made by the persons spified in the schedule to this my proclamation, and the sums of money more particularly set forth in the said schedule have been paid as rents ad survey fees in respect thereof, but the said applications have never been confirmed by the Secretary for Public Lands; and whereas the rents accruing due in respect o said lands so applied for for the currer year have not been paid; and whereas it has len proved to the satisfaction of me, the Governe aforesaid in Council, that the said lands were applied for in fraud of and in violation of the provisions of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 18, and it has, therefore, been determined by mehe Governor aforesaid, with the advice of the Executive Council, that the said moneys, so aid as aforesaid shall be declared forfeited, an the lands so applied for declared to be availablefor alienation in manner hereinafter stated," an then follow the necessary words to give effect the decision of the Governor in Council. The ifividual principally interested is supposed tobe the Hon. James Taylor, of Toowoomba, a squatter of great wealth; the Government still keeing to the big fish, presumedly, as being the more popular point of attack. The area involved is nearly 9000 acres, in 14 selections; and the money forfeited is nearly £2000. The dates of the selections are all between the 15thOctober, 1870, and the 5th June, 1871, three yeas' rent having been paid in most cases, and four ears' in one or two. As much was known—witever it may amount to—about the bona-fides of the selections at the time the selections were mde as is known now, and it is presumable, and believe is the fact, that the Commissioners' cerficate has in all cases been issued. Whatever mr be the deserts of the individual upon the mits of the case, there is a strong feeling abroad tat the credit of the country is damaged when a Government take a man's money, year after yearknowing that it was paid by virtue of a fraudagainst the Act, and ultimately pounce upon hin. The evidence upon which the action was taken is of course not public, and I am assuming the first for the sake of argument; and it is que possible that some of the ostensible selects may yet insist upon their rights. But therare hundreds of cases near to Brisbane where sall selectors have evaded the conditions of residece and improvement by every conceivable trik, and before the confidence of all classes is tablished in the action of the Government, sme of these must have the same measure mete out to them as is being so liberally applied to the squatting party.

It is quite possible that the gricultural interest of Queensland, which, apart from the wheat, maize, hay, and wne grows, produces only 10,000 tons of sugar this year may not yet in the eyes of the Agicultural Society of New South Wales have attained suficient magnitude to justify the colony in expecting an invitation to share in the proposed Intercolonial Convention. If this be so, we must bear as will as may be the refusal of our big brother to it us share his scheme of Union. But t becomes another question when the proposal is to 'represent the resources of the Australian colonies" at Philadelphia or anywhere else. No mount of combination or unity of action willconstitute New South Wales, Victoria, and Soth Australia—wealthy, populous, and enterprising though they be—"the Australian conies;" and when reference is mad to the vastness of Australian territory, it is strage that the giant item which Queensland fms in that vastness should have been overlooed. I presume that the Philadelphian Exhition will be conducted much upon the bas of other "world's fairs," and that it will inlude exhibits of all kinds, whether furnished by nature, science, or art. If this be so, then in th absence of Queensland the "Australian cobnies" would fail to exhibit many proofs of their wealtand boundless resources; and I hope for the credit of Australia that before much further actions taken by your society the attention of the Queensland Government may be drawn to the matter with a view to their co-operation in a project so full of interest and importance.

Talking of resources, I am remded that the Toowoomba Iron and Coal Compny have shown evidence of their vitality by comping the purchase of 330 acres of land on Pstone Creek. The coal is of good quality fomelting and steam purposes, while the iron o is stated to have produced a larger percentagel metal than any exhibited at Vienna. Limeste and fire-clay of good quality are also fouion the property. The seams both of iron ancoal are said to be inexhaustible; but the comny are proceeding with caution in their wrks, having called to their councils the Rev. W. Clarke, of your city.

Toowoomba is also organising as company, and the works for lighting the tn of Rockhampton are now nearly complete.

Our medical men are a good deal exercised in their minds by a recent decision of Mr. Justice Lilley during the hearing of the trial of a South Sea Islander for manslaughter. A chemist and druggist having been called by the Attorney-General to give evidence as to the cause of death, the counsel for the prosecution took the objection that the witness was not a duly qualified medical practitioner. The Judge, however, held the evidence to be perfectly admissible, and said that he wished it to be understood that he should never consider it necessary that witnesses giving medical testimony must be duly qualified medical practitioners; but in all such cases he should hold the proper course to be to examine the witness as fully as possible as to his experience, and let the jury accept his evidence for what it was worth. Our new Judge has imported a good deal of life into the Bench, which was getting decidedly sleepy; and among other of his recent doings has been to astonish a number of insolvents by withholding or refusing certificates which they would have inevitably got from Mr. Justice Lutwyche.

Our Agent-General in London is determined that he will not fail, for want of persuasion, to secure suitable emigrants with whom to fill his ships. He has arranged with Mr. Bonwick to deliver a series of lectures, upon the attractions presented by Queensland as a field for immigration, to the various trades-unions; and the great Odger is to organize large meetings as audiences for Mr. Bonwick in the different manufacturing towns.

The North Australian Jockey Club has been resuscitated under circumstances which promise a strong and influential sporting organization. The old racecourse has, however, passed into private hands, and will only be available for one meet of the new club.

Wednesday, September 30, at 11 a.m.—Before the District Commissioner: Mark Perry, special for proof of debts, and insolvent to account for his insolvency at Bega.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY.

BEFORE the Police Magistrate, with Messrs. Pinhey, Evans, Henry, Kippax, Solomon, Levey, and Meares.

Eleven persons were fined for drunkenness, one of whom was further fined 20s. for using obscene language.

Ellen Nugent was charged with having committed an aggravated assault upon Helen Hogan, seven years of age. The girl having been examined by Mr. Pinhey as to her apprehension of the nature of an oath, deposed that yesterday afternoon she and another girl were near defendant's residence, in Wexford-street,—in which street also she (witness) lives with her mother,—when defendant came to the door of her house, and, making use of bad words, told them to go away; they went down the street, and on their return towards home she threw two stones, one of which struck the wall, and rebounding therefrom struck her on the forehead, inflicting a wound, which bled considerably. Defendant denied that it was she who threw the stone, and named another as the offender; but complainant's evidence was corroborated by that of her companion. Defendant had no witness to support her defence. To pay a penalty of 10s., or to be imprisoned three days.

James Johnstone was charged with having assaulted one Mrs. Kelly, by biting—it might be almost chewing—her arm, and, pleading guilty, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

Henry Rowling was charged with having stolen a number of hides, the property of Charles H. Roberts. Constable Johnstone apprehended the prisoner, and produced three hides he found in tanpits at Enfield. Charles H. Roberts, of Homebush, publican and butcher, deposed that on last Wednesday he missed nine hides, of the value of £11 11s.; one of the hides produced by the constable he can swear to as his property, and believes that the two others are also his; prisoner was at one time in his service, and has since frequented his public-house. John King, butcher, in the service of Roberts, identified the three hides as the property of the prosecutor. James Brown, of Enfield, tanner, deposed that two of the three hides before the Court he purchased of prisoner, one on Monday, and the other on Tuesday. Thomas Shepherd, of Enfield, tanner, deposed as to the third hide that he purchased it of prisoner, on Thursday morning, last week. Committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions.

On the summons paper were eleven cases, of which two were dismissed, one was postponed, and four were not prosecuted. In the remaining four, the defendants were fined in sums varying from 5s. to 21s. for offences against either the Vagrant Act or the Drunkards' Act.

LICENSING BUSINESS.—An auctioneer's license was granted to Andrew Howard Moore. The license of the Alexandra Hotel, Garden-street and Raglan-street, was transferred, from Robert Thomas St. Clair to Dennis Gunning.

WATER POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY.

BEFORE the Water Police Magistrate and Messrs. Hunt, Reading, Lester, Smart, E. O. Smith, and Renwick.

Several persons were brought before the Court, and fined for drunkenness.

SUMMONS SHEET.—There were fourteen cases on the summons sheet, which were variously disposed of. Some were dismissed, others were postponed; and in others there were no parties. Peter Shields, for assaulting Thomas Powell, was fined £1, with £1 1s. professional costs, and 7s. 3d. costs of Court, in default 14 days in gaol. William Holston, for assaulting Mary Jane Long, a little girl, was fined £2, with 5s. 6d. costs, in default 14 days in gaol. The defendant is a lad for whom Mr. Lowe appeared.

LICENSING BUSINESS.—The license of the Royal Mail Hotel, Hunter-street, was transferred from Charles Rout to Thomas Grogan. On the application of Humphery Hall, his license was removed to the Crown and Anchor Hotel, Darling-street, Balmain. On the application of Margaret Bergin, her license was removed to the Lady Robinson Hotel, Riley-street.

PARRAMATTA.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

ORPHAN SCHOOLS.—On the afternoon of Saturday, the 26th instant, through the kindness of Mr. Hugh Taylor, M.L.A., one of the members for Parramatta, three hundred children, taken equally from the Protestant and Roman Catholic Orphan Schools, were marched to see the performances of Mr. King's Asiatic Circus and Japanese Troupe. A number of the patients from the Lunatic Asylum were also present. The entertainment appeared to afford gratification to them all.

BOROUGH COUNCIL.—All the aldermen, excepting Mr. C. J. Byrnes, met at the Council Chambers, at 3.30 p.m., on the 28th September, for the purpose of holding the usual fortnightly meeting. The Mayor presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Reports were received as follows:—From the Improvement Committee, recommending the temporary repairing of the dam by filling in clay at the upper side, and the carrying out of certain works in the borough. From the Water Committee, informing the Council that they had waited on the Minister for Works in reference to the water supply, and would inform the Council of the result when his answer was received; also that they had examined into the statements contained in the petition on the state of the dam, referred to them by the Council, and had found them to be somewhat exaggerated, as there was no danger of the salt-water finding its way into the fresh; from the Mayor, to the effect that a deputation had waited on the Minister for Works, and proposed to bring in the water from the reservoir by borrowing £5000 from the Government, and obtaining from the same quarter a grant of another £5000, the interest of the borrowed portion to be made good by supplying the Government establishments with water—that the Minister had expressed himself favourably to the proposition, and promised that if the Council would submit in writing a definite statement of what they wanted he would support their application. The report from the Improvement Committee, received last meeting, was then brought up for adoption. Alderman John Taylor moved the omission of a portion of the report which referred to kerbing and guttering recently completed in front of Mr. J. F. Staff's house in Campbell-street, because in permitting that work to be done without insisting on Mr. Staff's first having his encroaching fences moved back to the proper alignment, the committee had, as he (Mr. J. Taylor) said, acted in opposition to a resolution of Council, which he cited. The amendment was seconded by Alderman E. Taylor. Speeches, pro and con, were made by several of the aldermen. Mr. J. Taylor while subsequently speaking to the original motion was interrupted by Alderman Kitchen, who took umbrage at what he thought was a reflection upon himself; then followed disorder, and an adjournment.

September 29.

NEWCASTLE.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

ON Monday evening last, the Newcastle Borough Council met at the Court-house at 7 o'clock, for the transaction of business. Present—The Mayor (Mr. E. A. White), Aldermen Shaw, Hannell, Ludlow, Lochhead, Rodgers, Thorne, Brookes, and Webb. The proceedings did not terminate till nearly 11 o'clock. The principal business of the evening was the discussion of a motion for the formation of a fire brigade. Alderman Webb moved,—"That the sum of £75 placed on the estimates this year for the support of the fire brigade, be now placed in the A. J. S. Bank to the credit of the Fire Brigade Committee, provided that the sum of £150 be subscribed by one or more of the insurance companies towards the support and proper organisation of the brigade." A very lengthy discussion ensued, principally upon the power of the Council to appropriate the funds of the ratepayers to this purpose; Aldermen Hannell and Thorne considering that to do so would be illegal. Finally, Alderman Brookes moved,—"That this Council will support a properly constituted fire brigade to the extent of £75 per annum, on the following conditions, viz.:—1. That the Insurance Companies contribute not less than £150 per annum. 2. That this Council have a voice in the management, which shall consist of nine members, four of whom shall be aldermen of this Council, and the others nominated by the Insurance Companies. 3. That one engine be stationed at Honeysuckle Point." This amendment was also well discussed. The Mayor put the amendment first, and it was carried by a majority. He then put the amendment as a substantive motion, and it was again carried by a majority. The Council then rose.

A THEATRICAL FUNERAL.

(From the Melbourne Herald.)

AT the funeral of Mrs. Hallam, on Thursday, there was a disgraceful scene. That which was intended to be a solemn ceremony, became a vulgar show; and the body of a lady who, during a life passed in the exercise of a very trying profession, won the esteem of all who knew her, was lowered into her untimely grave amid the gruntings of a herd of gaping loafers. So indecent a scene has not unnaturally called forth strong expressions of public opinion. We cannot but think, however, that the public are inclined to blame the wrong people. Blackguards, male and female, always crowd to exhibitions calculated to interest them. A hanging, a fire, or a funeral invariably attracts the frequenters of gratis entertainment. The mob has no sympathy for the dead, pity for the suffering, or sorrow for the sinful. It comes to be amused, and an event like the burial of a notability was certain to claim its interest and attention. Intelligent students of modern manners predicted with grave assurance the event of Thursday. It would have been wonderful indeed if the publicly advertised funeral of a popular artist—a funeral rendered the more conspicuous by pall-bearing, flower-casting, and other semi-theatrical follies—had not attracted a crowd of loafers. The persons to blame are the unthinking organisers of a display which, always in bad taste, was on this occasion rendered more undesirable than ever by the fact that the deceased lady belonged to a profession which demands the strictest modesty of behaviour in its private and domestic concerns. It would have been better if the hideous funeral pageant, invented by undertakers, had been dispensed with altogether, and the sad ceremony of committing to earth the poor dead corpse of that which had been but so lately a brilliant woman, had been conducted with that serious privacy which marks the genuine grief of thinking minds. But the friends of poor Mrs. Hallam thought otherwise. They must have a theatrical display, at once extensive and pretentious. The solemn mockery of spirited horses, which are not spirited, of magnificent coaches lined with musty cloth, of worm eaten plumes, and costly housings of cotton velvet, must be hired to entertain the dirty little boys of Carlton. Nor was this sufficient. When the coffin reached the burial ground, it must needs be slowly carried to the grave, the "pall borne by young ladies connected with the theatrical profession." We give these young ladies credit for believing that they were in a manner compelled to officiate in this monstrous ceremony, and the wreath-placing and flower flinging which preceded or followed it. But the effect of the whole business was to attract the gapers, who shoved aside the instigators of the degrading display in order to obtain a sight of the entertainment provided for them. It is natural enough that the people thus rudely treated should complain. But let them consider that they provoked their fate. The business in which they were so wastefully engaged reflected no honour upon the senseless body of the dead girl. A long line of people ridiculously ornamented with "weepers" and crape bandages of bygone fashion is only foolish and contemptible; while the pressing crowd of roughs and larrikins, pointing with such slang expressions of delight as are used in the gallery of a theatre, to the faces of the actors whom they recognised, is disgusting merely. It is not right to say that the "trustees of the cemetery" are to blame, or that "police" should have been ordered. The trustees suppose that men bury their dead with due precaution for the preservation of property and order; the police are—or should be—better engaged than in marshalling unseemly processions to their preposterous conclusion. The vain and foolish persons who "organised" the ghastly mummery which was enacted on Thursday are alone to blame; for had they acted with sense and discretion, the riot complained of would not have happened. We only hope that the intention of these people was as good as it is desired that it should appear, and that there was not the thought of creating a spurious artistic reputation by securing the record of a "long funeral train and impressive ceremony joined in by the leading citizens of Melbourne." It would be hideous to find that so mean a motive was at the bottom of the ill-advised business which has ended so painfully; but there are not wanting people to assert such a belief. It is in any case very sad to think that the last we shall hear of a decorous and talented woman is, that by the blundering of those she left behind her, the terrible publicity of the theatre followed her corpse to its last resting place, and howled and whooped around her grave.

LORD HOUGHTON ON LITERATURE AND ART.—At the dinner given by the Lord Mayor on the 21st July, at the Mansion House, to distinguished representatives of Literature and Art, Lord Houghton said the Lord Mayor had asked him to respond to a toast wide as the thought of man and co-extensive with his own hospitality. He had been thinking why he should have elected him for that duty, but at last he had hit upon a solution. It might be that he was the person there who for more than a generation of men had been the attesting witness to, and perhaps the companion of, the most eminent men of letters of his time. He sat by the death-bed of Coleridge, the great philosopher, and he had lived to be perplexed by the speculations of John Mill and Matthew Arnold. He was a college friend of Alfred Tennyson, and he hailed the rising genius of Algernon Swinburne. He was present at the historic birth of Macaulay and Hallam, and he now enjoyed the controversies and counter-controversies of Freeman and Froude. He had seen Miss Edgeworth in her decline, and he had also observed the great maturity of the genius of "George Eliot." He entered Parliament with "Vivian Grey," and he now rested under the Premiership of "Lothair"—(cheers); and, if they would allow him a moment, he would refer back to a sister art, for he had still in his ears the trumpet tones of Madame Catalani accompanying Luther's Hymn in York Minster, and that enabled him to appreciate the more the wonderful facility in their art of the distinguished ladies whom he saw around him. (Cheers.) Still further, he had the reminiscence of the forms of sylph-like grace which intoxicated his youth. Reminiscence was necessary to their profession, and they could not get on without it. They were not like that sister art which could fix the fleeting form and give it the power of eternity. How often had they seen a great picture upon the walls, and felt that it, after all, depicted the living man; while they were, in fact, the shadows? The Huguenot of Mr. Millais still embraced that fair Catholic as he saw her on the walls of the Academy nearly thirty years ago, and the English soldiery as painted by Miss Thompson would depict to our posterity the sufferings and glory of their gallant army in the Crimea. (Cheers.) He was not going to abuse the opportunity which those and other reminiscences might give him upon that occasion, and that for two reasons—the first being that that was not the time for dissertation or criticism, and the other that he might not be so wholly complimentary as the genius of after-dinner speeches required. (A laugh.) But they who had lived long were rather fond of the past, and it might be that they found the Republic of Letters at present a little too republican, and that they held with some affection to that older time when among men of literature there was more mutual friendship and independence than there was now, and when literature was felt to be a great intellectual bond which cemented together all classes of society. (Cheers.) It was in that sense that he thanked the Lord Mayor for having called them together that day, for his lordship, by his action and his words, would have done something towards the realisation of that idea. His lordship had said that for men of active business life there was an eternal comfort and an everlasting pleasure in falling back upon the resources of literature. Far be from them the day when that was not so, and still further the day when the governing classes of the community did not understand that that power was the great link by which men of thought and men of action were bound together. If they were separated, the men of thought might fall into extravagance such as characterised the Communists of Paris, and the men of action might lapse into stupidity and dulness. But hold them together, and it would be well for the future of England as it had been for the past. (Cheers.)

GARNIER'S NEW CALEDONIAN MINERAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—Noumeite may be a very good name for the above, but its habitat is not Noumea, which was not in existence as a known locality when Monsieur Garnier discovered and reported on the mineral.

It would be much better to call it Garnierite, as a just compliment to the first discoverer and first reporter of it, as shown in his various publications.

In my former note I omitted accidentally to state that the analysis I attributed to Professor Liversidge was copied from his first notice kindly sent to me, and not from his more perfect assays or subsequent records.

I hope my friend will be disposed to adopt the name I have suggested, and give the honour of the nomenclature to whom it is due.

IRRELIGION IN AMERICA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—I shall be glad if you or anyone else can inform me from what work of the late Professor Agassiz the Coadjutor Archbishop quoted in his speech of the 26th instant, at St. Benedict's.

I should also feel gratified if his Grace would inform the public of the source of his information, that there are 25,000,000 people in America (I infer that he means the United States), or ⅔ths of the entire population who do not profess any distinct religion whatever.

My object in asking this information is to transmit it to my Government for correction if it is erroneous, which I believe it to be, and that it conveys an unjust reflection upon both the educational and religious condition of my country.

I ask this information publicly, as the statements were made in public, and the facts are of universal interest.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—Mr. Joubert's characteristic panegyric upon the Agricultural Society of New South Wales, published in yesterday's Herald, might lead many to infer that Australian wools were neither fully known nor generally used by the American or French manufacturers until quite recently. I need hardly say that the contrary is the fact. Agents for French houses have operated in the Australian wool market long ere Mr. Joubert's interests were connected in any degree with that of our great staple product; and for a number of years American manufacturers have been amongst the largest buyers of the finest colonial clips. About three years ago I remember travelling with a member of a Boston wool-dealing firm, Messrs. Hilton, Weston, and Co., and was surprised to find that he was as conversant with all the leading brands of Victorian wool as if he had spent years in that colony. To my inquiry regarding the status of Sydney wool in their market, he rejoined, "Your best clips may be finer than the Victorian, but have not the length of staple required by our consumers of fine foreign." That he was correct is shown by the comparatively small quantity of N. S. Wales wool purchased in the colonies on American account, and the fact that large shipments have been sent here from Melbourne for transhipment per Californian mail steamers. Three years ago American buyers came to Australia to secure the first of the new clip, because their own markets were bare of other grades than domestic. It has since then proved more remunerative to them to wait for the London May and July sales, as by purchasing there they have not to keep stocks so long in hand ere required for manufacture.

Yours obediently,

COST OF DENOMINATIONAL EDUCATION.

II.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—Some time ago I wrote a letter to the Herald in which, by taking Mr. Greenwood's figures as the basis of my calculations, I showed that the value of the education received in all the Denominational schools in the Sydney district was 9s. 1d. less than what was actually paid for it by the State; or that the same results cost that amount less in the Public schools than we are at present paying for them.

Since then I have gone to the trouble of analysing the report of the Council of Education for 1873 thoroughly, and I find that all the Denominational schools in the country may be arranged as follows:—

	In Sydney District.	Competing P. school.	Competing with D. schools.	Non-competing with competing schools.	Total.
C. E. schools ..	20	33	16	27	96
R. C. schools ..	17	48	13	9	87
Pres. schools ..	4	3	6	2	15
Wes. schools ..	4	3	2	1	10
Hebrew schools	1	0	0	0	1
Total	46	87	37	39	209

From this table it appears that at the end of 1873, 46 Denominational schools were in the Sydney district; 87 were competing against Public schools; 37 were competing against rival sectarian schools; and 39 were isolated, or doing the work of Public schools.

My business is now with the Denominational schools not in the Sydney district. For the purpose of letting your readers see clearly the comparative cost of education in the Public and Denominational schools which are working side by side in the country, I have divided the Denominational schools into three classes—1st, Denominational schools competing with Public schools; 2nd, competing Denominational schools; and 3rd, non-competing Denominational schools. I intend to deal with these separately, so as to show the cost of the working of the system side by side, which, I contend, is the only fair way of testing them. For this purpose I have constructed the following table, which will show at a glance both the costs and results in the different schools. A word of explanation may be necessary to show how I have arrived at the following results. I have taken all the competing Public and Denominational schools, and added for each kind:—1st, the enrolement; 2nd, the average attendance; 3rd, the amount paid for salaries; 4th, the fees paid; 5th, the numbers present at examination; and 6th, the inspectors' marks given to each school as explained in my last letter. I have then reduced these sums to the salary, fees, and attainments for each child, using as my divisor the sum of the average attendance, as given in the Council's report. I think that is the fairest method, as it gives the cost of the work actually performed. I am perfectly well aware that the average attendance does not represent the numbers who have actually paid fees; but neither does the enrolment do so. A child may attend one day in a quarter, and it counts one toward the number enrolled; and many may attend three or four days in the week, and pay for the full week.

Taking the whole schools in the country, the attendance is about two-thirds of the enrolment; and by adding one-fourth to the average, we might get a guess at the number for whom fees were paid. But this would not mend the matter, as all the numbers would be proportionately increased, and when the same rule is applied to all no one can complain of unfair play.

TABLE OF COMPETING PUBLIC AND DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOLS, SHOWING THE COMPARATIVE COST AND ATTAINMENTS OF EACH KIND FOR EACH CHILD IN AVERAGE ATTENDANCE.

Kind of Schools.	Number of Schools.	Enrolment.	Average attendance, kept 1873.	Total salaries.	Cost per child in salary.	Total fees paid.	Fee paid for each child.	Number present at Examination.	Number of Marks.	Marks for each child.	Percentage of attendance of enrolment.
Wesleyan	3	217	191·8	360 14 6	2 7 6¾	156 19 6	1 0 7¾	163	963	5·73	69·96
Presbyterian	3	292	217·3	365 12 6	1 4 6¾	243 11 4	1 7 7*	190	1,070	5·63	74·53
Public Schools	61	8429	5947·3	9083 6 0	1 10 9·6	7586 16 4¾	1 6 6¾	5685	38,515·4	6·57*	69·8
Roman Catholic ..	48	4357	3133·7	4659 13 10	1 9 11¼	2612 17 0	0 16 81-12	2075	16,326·7	[illegible]	69·06
Church of England	33	2056	1524·3	3615 9 7	1 16 6¾	2155 14 0	1 2 4¾	2043	11,115·5	5·29*	65·23

From this table we get the following rather curious results:—1. The enrolment of the Public Schools is 8428, against 7856 in all the Denominational schools; and the average attendance is, in Public schools, 5947·3, against 5437·8 in Denominational schools, showing clearly a majority in favour of Public schools, notwithstanding the touting of the clergymen, and the bribs held out to poor people to send their children to sectarian schools. But of this more anon.

2. Denominational Schools cost the State more than the Public Schools with which they are competing. The salary per child in the Public schools is, disregarding fractions, £1 10s. 9d. per child; while in the Church of England schools it is £1 16s. 6d., or five shillings and ninepence more; and this for 1924 children amounts to £503 3s. more than the same children could be educated for at the Public school next door. That is supposing the value of the instruction in both cases to be the same, which it is not. The results stand by inspectors' marks as 5·3 to 6·5; but this is not the real state of the case, as the inspectors employ 2 to represent failure, 3 indifferent, &c.; while, as I have shown in my first letter, zero should be employed for failure, 1 for indifferent, 2 for moderate, &c. Adopting the table which I gave in my last, the true numbers to represent the results will be 4·5 for Public and 3·3 for Denominational schools. The question now arises, if 4·5 results can be obtained what are 3·3 worth? This can easily be found by the rule of three to be £1 2s. 8 1-5d., or 14s. 0½d. less than is actually paid for it, and for which it can be obtained at the competing Public school. This sum multiplied by 1924·3, the average attendance, gives £1350 12s.

The Roman Catholic schools cost 10d. per child less in salary than the Public schools, but they are dearer for all that when we take the quality of the education into consideration. The results for them are 5·3 against 6·5, or adopting my table which gives the true numerical value of the results, 3·3 against 4·5 in Public schools; and the salary per child being £1 9s. 11d., we have £2 0s. 9½d. for results equal to those obtained in the Public schools for £1 10s. 9d., or for 10s. less; and this multiplied by 3133·7, the average attendance, gives £1566 14s. It will not be necessary to repeat these calculations for the Presbyterian and Wesleyan schools, but I may notice that the first costs 6s. 4d. less, and the second 16s. 8d. more than the Public schools, making no allowance for the difference of results. The reason why the salary rate is so low in the Presbyterian schools is, that for two out of the three schools—viz., Kempsey and Parramatta—the sums of £47 2s 6d. and £61 were paid for the year as salary. It is pretty clear that the sum of £3394 4s. 6d. has been paid during the year of grace 1873 for the support of sectarian schools, for the benefit of the Church of England and the Roman Catholics more than the same work could have been done for next door. But this is not all, as the Presbyterian and Wesleyan schools are left out of the count; and it is not too much to say, that at least half of the children could have been educated by the half empty existing Public schools, without one penny extra in salary, and the other half at less than the Public school rate of £1 10s. 9 5-9d. Taking these facts into account, it is not too much to say that the eighty-seven Denominational schools, competing against Public schools, have cost the colony £5000 extra in salaries alone.

But it may be objected that though these Denominational schools have cost the country £5000 extra in salaries, the value of it has been saved in other ways, viz.—by providing buildings, furniture, &c., free of charge. I am prepared to dispute that. It has been admitted, by Mr. A. Stuart, that the buildings may be worth what they cost. If so, buildings which cost the country £75,000 are worth £112,500, as the people contribute one-third, or £37,500 of this value. Therefore, after paying interest on the £75,000, the country is the gainer by having a property worth, say, £100,000, for £75,000, from its revenue. But have the Denominational schools been given to the people all "free gratis for nothing?" as Dickens says. I trow not. They have been paid for by the people in the form of subscriptions, got up by their promoters. But the people have no control over these schools as a right, and they may be closed against them any day, or the teacher harassed and abused because he will not do any and every thing at the beck and nod of the parson or priest. I could lift the veil off some of these attempts to ride rough-shod over both teacher and Council, but for the present I will forbear. While, on the other hand, the Public school buildings are the property of the people for ever, and they have the control of them through their representatives.

But another curious fact is proved by this table, viz., that, notwithstanding the assertion of the Bishop of Sydney to the contrary, the Church of England schools stand at the bottom of the list for the value of the instruction given, at least so far as competing schools in the country are concerned. Here is the order in which they stand, with the attainments reduced to per child:—

Public schools	6·57*
Wesleyan ditto	5·76
Presbyterian ditto	5·63
Roman Catholic ditto	5·309
Church of England ditto	5·29

I come now to the question of fees. At the same time that the table shows that the country has to pay the piper for its sectarian song, it also shows that the unfortunate teacher has to suffer pretty smartly for the same purpose. The sixty-one Public schools have an average of 5947·3, which gives for each 97·5, while the eighty-seven Denominational schools have only 5427·3, or 62·3 nearly for each. Thus, the teacher of the Public school has at least one-third more scholars, and that proportion of fees greater than his Denominational brother, all other things being equal.

But a glance at the table reveals the fact that all other things are not equal. While the fee per child in the Public school is £1 5s. 6¾d., it is £1 2s. 8 4-7d. in the Church of England, and—"Tell it not in Gath"—only 16s. 8½d. in Roman Catholic schools, or 2s. 10d. and 8s. 10d. less respectively. These sums, multiplied by the average for each kind of schools, give £272 11s. 4d. and £1384 1s., or £1666 12s. 4d. paid less to the teachers of these 87 Denominational schools than their brethren in the Public school next door gets for the same number of children. Can we wonder that the energy of the Denominational teacher is damped by this circumstance alone?

What now becomes of the boast of the Rev. Mr. Bode, that the Church of England schools were doing a good work by educating a greater number of children free than the Public schools were doing? Does Mr. Bode or any other clergyman, either singly or collectively, pay one penny to the teacher for those children? I think not, or they would have told us. Not content with dipping their hands into the public purse, they must lessen the income of the hardworked and often underpaid teacher to keep their schools afloat, and then in a self-glorifying style hold up their deeds as a reason why the people should support them.

But there is another circumstance in which the teachers of these Denominational schools are placed at a great disadvantage when compared with teachers in Public schools. By a regulation of the Council of Education, no teacher holding a certificate of III Class, section A or upwards, is allowed to sit for examination with a view to gain promotion unless his school come up to a certain standard at the annual examination. Now in the Public school the teacher has five hours a day for the ordinary work of the school, while in the Denominational school he has only four. Yet the latter is expected to do the same amount of work in four hours as the former does in five, and if he fail the penalty is that he is not eligible for promotion. There are many other disadvantages with which the Denominational teacher has to contend, which I will not stop to particularize at present. But I may mention, in passing, that I know of one case at least, in which one hour of the time allowed for religious teaching is spent by the teachers in putting forms and desks and other furniture in their places, because a person has taken it into his head that it is the duty of the teachers to put the school to rights, after he has used it for a church. This same rev. gentleman, though almost rabid in his opposition to the present movement in favour of Public schools, has never, during the present year, given one word of religious instruction in his Denominational school. It is to be hoped, that there are not many of those who are making all this row about religious instruction, who waste one-fifth of the time allowed for it in forcing teachers to do work which churchwardens, or at least the church should pay for.

Returning to the table, we find in the last column, the percentage of attendance on the enrolment. And here again, we find that among the schools under consideration, the Church of England is at the bottom of the list; which shows that the attendance is either bolstered up, or the people are less desirous of a good education than the members of other Churches, instead of being the most desirous, as Dr. Barker would lead us to suppose.

Presbyterian schools, in every 100 on the roll 74·53 attend
Wesleyan schools, ditto ditto .. .. 69·95
Public schools, ditto ditto .. .. 69·8
Roman Catholic schools, ditto ditto .. 69·08
Church of England schools, ditto ditto .. 65·23

As I have already trespassed on your space more than I intended, I will leave the tables of the sectarian schools, competing against each other only, and the non-competing schools of the same class for another letter.

I am, Sir, yours &c.,

D. RITCHIE.

General Post Office, Sydney, 29th September, 1874.

Custom House.—Entered Outwards, September 29: Lady Robinson, schooner, 106 tons, Captain M'Kenzie, for Cooktown; Boomerang (s.), 496 tons, Captain Edwards, for Rockhampton; Governor Blackall (s.), 321 tons, Captain Saunders, for Brisbane and Maryborough.

The Coonawarra (s.).—Some three months since the A. S. N. Co. withdrew the above steamer from the Hunter River trade for the purpose of making such additions in her steaming power that a considerable increase of speed would be attained, and at the same time renovating and improving where practicable her extensive and already well-arranged passenger accommodation. Commencing with the motive power, we find that the ship has been for some years driven at the rate of 10½ knots by steam supplied from two boilers. These have been taken out, and she has now on board four boilers specially designed to burn northern coal, and representing and capable of generating just twice the former amount of steam. The engines have been taken entirely to pieces, and have received a most careful overhaul. The whole of the brasses being new, and to the very minor details have passed under the watchful eye of Mr. Davidson, the Company's engineer-superintendent. The whole of the machinery is therefore now in splendid order, and, as the engineer's trial trip of yesterday proved, the Coonanbarra is decidedly the fastest steamer in the Australian waters. Advantage has been taken of the general overhaul to remove the steam winches from the main to the spar deck, thus utilising a considerable space below, more especially at the entrance at the main hatch where the ingress or egress of passengers is now perfectly clear. The main saloon has been completely improved both in upholstery work and ornamentation, and is decidedly the handsomest apartment on board any steamer running from this port. The main saloon, as well as the apartment appropriated to the ladies, is painted in enamelled French grey relieved with gold, the panelling on the sides being fitted with painting on glass,—admirably executed. The companion way, by which the spar-deck is reached, has been shifted, so that now a handsome winding staircase leads directly into the cabin—the entrance from the deck being from a house which also contains the captain's cabin and a elegantly furnished boudoir, to be kept strictly private, where ladies who dislike the confinement in the lower saloon can enjoy the summer breezes on deck, and have an uninterrupted view of our beautiful coast scenery. The Coonanbarra will, as before, be under the command of Captain Adams, whose popularity and ability are too well known to require comment. The Coonanbarra started on her trial trip at 6 a.m. yesterday, and proceeded as far as Terrigal—the engines working in a most satisfactory manner. After clearing the Heads it was found that a nasty sea was rolling along the coast, and there were amongst the visitors a large number of the victims of mal-de-mer. The directors' trial trip will be made in a few days.

The Wentworth (s.) for Melbourne, and City of Hobart (s.) for Hobart Town, sailed yesterday.

The schooner May Campbell is reported to have broken her back at the Macleay, and damaged her cargo of sugar. She is towed off by a small steamer belonging to the A. S. N. Co., and is coming up to Sydney in ballast.

The French war steamer Cher which has received a thorough overhaul to her machinery made a trial trip yesterday, proceeding about 10 miles outside the Heads. Her engines worked satisfactorily.

The Balclutha (s.) left Rockhampton on Friday, the 25th instant, at 8 p.m.; cleared Keppel Bay on the 26th at noon, rounded Breaksea Spit at 3.30 a.m. on the 27th, and Cape Moreton at 7.45 p.m. the same day; passed Smoky Cape at 10.20 p.m. on the 28th, and arrived at the A. S. N. Co.'s Wharf at 10.20 p.m. on the 29th. Experienced fresh N.W. wind with thick cloudy weather, and heavy rain at times, up to noon the 27th; thence a strong westerly gale to Smoky Cape; fresh S.W. and southerly wind with high SE. sea the remainder of the passage.

The Victory, brig, arrived yesterday from Ilo Ilo, after a most tedious passage of 14½ days. She came down through Dampier Straits, and sailed at Timor on 21st July, leaving the following day; from thence she came west about, carrying very light winds to Cape Leeuwin, which was rounded on the 12th instant, and since then strong S. and W. gales, Cape Otway being passed on the 23rd September. On the 26th, being very short of provisions, boarded the brig Maud, from Melbourne, to Newcastle, and obtained a much needed supply.

The Boomerang (s.) left Brisbane on Saturday, 26th instant, at 6.30 p.m., and rounded Cape Moreton at 6.30 p.m. same date; passed Smoky Cape on Sunday, 27th, at 9.30 p.m., and arrived at the Company's wharf at 6 a.m. this morning, Tuesday. Had moderate N.W. winds and weather to abreast the Clarence; thence strong S.W. gale, with high S.E. sea, and unsettled weather to arrival.

DISMASTED VESSELS.

The Bate Fawn.—In our yesterday's issue we published a brief notice of the return to port of the brig Fawn, which vessel had lost her foremast while on the passage from Newcastle to New Zealand. By the courtesy of Captain Walker we are enabled to publish the following particulars of the disaster:—The brig Fawn, 216 tons, left Newcastle for Lyttelton on Sunday, 20th September, with 330 tons coal and sundries. The wind was fresh and the sky clear. Left port at 1.30 p.m., and at 5 o'clock the weather became threatening, wind increasing, and there was a good deal of lightning. Took in sail, and at midnight the wind shifted suddenly to S.W.; at 4 a.m. it was still blowing heavily, and increased in violence throughout Monday. At 5 p.m. on the latter day, the brig shipped a sea, which stove in the galley, and washed away the watercloset and bulwarks. The wind increased in violence, and at 11 p.m. a terrific sea submerged the vessel, and the latter giving a heavy lurch to leeward, shifted the cargo, which threw the brig on her beam-ends, her bowsite being in the water; the fore scuttle hatch was plucked off, and the sea poured into the forecastle; both boats were carried away, together with cast shafts, livestock, windlass bendies, all spare spars, main boom, and two watercasks, leaving the ship in a helpless and almost sinking state, with the sea rolling over her fearfully. It was then found necessary for the safety of the ship and those on board, to cut away the foremast. In falling the spar carried away the jibboom, main topgallantmast, spanker boom, and other gear. Relieved of the wreck, the brig in a measure righted, and was then jury rigged. On the following day the weather moderated somewhat, but the ship continued rolling heavily, and men were sent below to trim the cargo. Afterwards bore up for Newcastle, and arrived on Sunday. The Fawn is the property of Mr. John Wood, of Lyttelton.—Newcastle Pilot, September 29.

The Schooner Colonist.—The schooner Colonist, bound for New Zealand, coal laden, was on Sunday reported to be in a disabled condition thirty miles to the eastward. The steaming Southland proceeded to her assistance, and found her with both masts gone close by the deck. The schooner was jury rigged, and standing to the southward. The master of the Southland proffered assistance, but was unable to arrange terms of towage to Sydney, which was the port the master of the schooner desired to make, and so the tug returned to port. The Colonist's boats were gone, and it was reported that she had been dismasted in a heavy gale about a fortnight ago. We are informed that the master of the Colonist offered £50 towage money which was refused.—Newcastle Pilot, September 29.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1874.

A SPLENDID entertainment at the Mansion House specially to honour literature and art is a new and instructive sign of the times. The noble hospitality of the City of London has heretofore comprehended in its circle foreign Sovereigns, Ministers of State, victorious soldiers and sailors, and distinguished diplomatists. If by accident great names in literature were associated with these, the LORD MAYOR welcomed them to his table. But the banqueting-hall of the Mansion House never before contained so magnificent and miscellaneous an assemblage as that which filled it on the night of the 21st July last. A great company of poets and painters and sculptors, novelists and essayists; journalists, musicians, and actors; those whose occupation it is to educate and delight, to refine and soften manners, to assist culture, to beautify our daily life, and to reveal to the world the hidden beauties of art—to preserve—most precious of all treasures—the purity of our language, and to guard from rash intrusion the sacredness of our literature; all these honoured the LORD MAYOR of LONDON with their society on that evening. When the guests are contrasted with those distinguished persons who are usually the objects of the State hospitalities of the city, the Ministers of the Crown who pay for their entertainment by a few political commonplaces—the warriors who are only brilliant in the field or on the sea—and the ambassadors who use language (according to the conception of one of the greatest of their profession of its objects) to conceal their thoughts, one wonders why it has been reserved for the present Chief Magistrate to inaugurate such noble entertainments as this of which we are speaking. It has so long been charged against England that she had small sympathies with her men of letters and art, till splendid successes had made them personages of the Empire—that they must have won the affections of the people before they attracted the notice of those in power—and that after all for the best of them there was, as the national reward, nothing earlier than a resting place in Westminster Abbey, that one feels surprised that the LORD MAYOR's idea had not been anticipated by some of his predecessors. To play the generous host to the writer who lives in the hearts of his countrymen, who has entered with benedictions into all pure and gentle households—to the singer who has captivated millions by her genius—to the painter whose canvas will be for posterity the evidence of our civilization—is a part so honourable that it might form the object of any man's ambition, however lofty his station and engrossing his cares. To be at home with those who had shown us the old romantic legends gleaming out of history—to meet face to face with men and women about whose talk and dress and daily life our grandchildren will be as curious as we are about those of ADDISON and GOLDSMITH and FIELDING—to have as guests in our narrow homes those who are already in the palaces of our literature—these are assuredly among the greatest of privileges and purest of pleasures. The LORD MAYOR was fortunate in his historical feast to enjoy the presence of one noble guest (whose speech will be found elsewhere) who could give eloquent expression to the sentiments not only of his brethren in literature, but of the people of England. Lord HOUGHTON, whose years and whose services to letters enabled him to speak in an eminently representative character—with eloquence "illuminate with autumnal hues," glanced in rapid retrospect at his experiences of those men and women who have helped in a large measure to build up in these latter years the true greatness and glory of the nation. His has been a life of singular felicity and distinction, both social and literary. A man of refined taste, of fortunate friendships with the wisest and noblest of his contemporaries—himself privileged in no small degree to contribute to the instruction and delight of his generation, it was most fitting that he should be called upon to respond to the principal toast of the banquet, at which he was a central figure; and to thank his host for bringing together those who, by their intellectual bond, cemented together all classes of society; and whose thoughts are "like light that bind the world in one." At this distance from the seat of Empire, our sympathies with all that tends to elevate and ennoble our history are not less keen and vivid than those of our more favoured fellow-citizens, who can look upon the great masters of modern thought and speech of whom we only read. And we may contemplate with a pardonable self-complacency our own exertions as colonists in this far-off region to fit our society to bear the honourable burden of our national greatness in literature. However we may differ as to the best means by which our public education can be most certainly and completely effected, we are all agreed upon the necessity of sacrificing all other considerations to the one supreme object of reaching as high a standard as our means and opportunities will enable us to attain. And out of such a controversy as is now being sustained with so much activity, we may and probably will come with increased information and undiminished vigour to the performance of the great task which we have undertaken. As pathetic as they are instructive are the closing words of Lord HOUGHTON's speech; and we heartily commend them to all who admire, love, and sympathize with the literary benefactors of their common country:—

"They who had lived long were rather fond of the past, and it might be that they found the republic of letters at present a little too republican, and that they held with some affection to that older time when among men of literature there was more mutual friendship and independence than there was now, and when literature was felt to be a great intellectual bond which cemented together all classes of society. It was in that sense that he thanked the Lord Mayor for having called them together that day, for his lordship, by his action and his words, had said that to men of government and to men of business daily employed, there is an eternal comfort and everlasting pleasure in falling back upon the resources of literature. Far be from us the day when it is not so; still further be the day when the governing classes of this country do not understand that power as the great link which holds men of thought and men of action together. If you separate them, the men of thought go wrong, because they fall into extravagances; the men of action go wrong, because they fall into the stupidities and dulnesses of all that is miserable in daily life. While these things hold fast together, well will it be for the England of the future as it has been for the England of the past."

AMONGST the information given by the English woolbrokers and staplers in response to the inquiries of the Central Agricultural Society of this colony in 1871, for the direction of the wool-growers, we find the following from Mr. H. SCHWARTZE:—"Whether combing or clothing is or will be in greater demand, is a question to which the reply will vary according to the fashions prevalent at the time. During the last ten years, and especially since the American War, combing has had decidedly the advantage, the consumption of fine cloths, for which the United States was one of the principal markets, having considerably diminished. But this may alter, and superior clothing wools may again appear in the foreground, more especially as their production, owing to the unfavourable demand, has, of late years, become exceedingly limited." The possibility here spoken of is realized. A much stronger demand exists for clothing wool in America, for they prefer broadcloth. Indeed, the market for Australian wool, whether combing or clothing, is likely to increase in America. For America, or any country which has to house its animals throughout a long winter, feeding them upon stored food, cannot grow wool so cheaply as Australia, where the sheep have the driest air and no winter. All the eastern slopes of America have severe winters—none so severe as the inland States—and they are consequently more devoted to the growth of grain, &c. The Pacific slopes have a climate very like that of Australia, dry, temperate, and in the low and southern country mild and winterless; they need not shelter stock, and they have large herds and flocks. But California is not a wool country. Although no explanation accompanies the fact, it is stated, on good authority, that Californian sheep cannot grow a fleece for twelve months—it must be shorn in six months, or it will fall off. The States, therefore, do not promise to grow their own wool, and will be glad enough that we should do it for them.

At present there seems to be a reaction against clothing wool. The greater demand for the bright, deeper staples has carried the majority of the growers into the production of that description of w

AWFUL TYPHOON.

SINGAPORE, SEPTEMBER 29.

Hongkong and Macao have been visited by a typhoon of unusual violence, and which has caused terrible destruction of life and property. Two steamers and eight ships are known to have foundered or to have been wrecked during the prevalence of its resistless impetuosity, and many others are missing. The damage to property is immense. The loss of life is awful, it being estimated that 1000 persons have fallen victims to the unparalleled fury of the hurricane.

DENMARK AND GERMANY.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 28.

The expulsion of Danish agitators from Schleswig Holstein has caused much comment. It is denied in Berlin that Denmark offered any remonstrance on account of the action taken by Germany in reference to the matter. On the contrary, it is affirmed that the expulsion of foreigners from German territory cannot occasion diplomatic action.

AMATEUR CONCERT.—Last evening, an amateur concert was given in the Masonic Hall, in aid of the Home Visiting and Relief Society. There was a large and fashionable audience; the Hon. Lady Robinson, Miss Robinson, and Mr. and Mrs. St. John being among those present. The Hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion. A trophy of flags surmounted a screen in the centre of the platform, on either side of which was a column of bright-hued flowers, with palm-leaves drooping above them. The walls were agreeably relieved with plants within the recesses. Flags were grouped in front of the gallery, the pillars beneath being twined with ivy and greenery. The programme comprised an excellent selection of choruses, songs, concerted pieces, and pianoforte and violin solos, and other instrumental music; and, though rendered throughout by lady and gentleman amateurs, the entertainment was of the most enjoyable character, proving that there had been the required previous preparation. The opening chorus "I Lombardi," by about thirty voices, was sung with excellent effect, and was warmly applauded. The ballad "Oh, say once more I love thee," was next rendered in a pleasing manner. A pianoforte solo, "Alice," was played admirably by a young lady, her performance being deservedly encored. Ketten's "Stella di Nizza" was well sung. An exquisite violin solo was then rendered by a gentleman, who undoubtedly is master of the instrument. His playing was warmly applauded. The cavatina "Bel Raggio" next sung by a lady, was demonstratively encored; and the first part of the concert was closed with the "Austrian National Hymn"—as a quartette for violins. In the duet "Qui Tolis," two young ladies won the encomiums of their audience; and the solo and chorus "Agnes Dei" which followed was also well received. By not a few the next piece on the programme "Ai Nostri Monti" (Trovatore), would be regarded as the gem of the evening, and it was admirably sung by three capital voices. The song "When the swallows," was well rendered by a lady, who was encored. An impromptu fantasia on the pianoforte was played by a young lady and encored, and a gentleman was similarly complimented for a solo upon the pianoforte. Two male voices rendered "Il Rival Salvar" (Puritani) with excellent effect. Another chorus was sung, and the concert was closed with the National Anthem. The accompaniments were played by various members of the company. In consequence of the demand for encores, it was half-past 10 before the concert terminated.

FOUND DROWNED.—On Wednesday last (the Forbes Times reports) the body of a man was seen floating in the river opposite Messrs. Nicolas and Raymond's sawmills. It was afterwards brought to the Club-house Hotel, and the Coroner (Mr. J. F. Armstrong) held an inquest upon it. The body was identified as that of a poor fellow, who for some time past has been of unsound mind, and who resided up the river from Forbes. His movements were uncertain, as when he got tired of staying at one place he would go to another, consequently his absence was not marked. He had apparently been in the water for some days, and as there was no evidence to show how he got into the water, a verdict was returned of "Found drowned."

THE EXETER REREDOS CASE.—Judgment was given on August 6 in the Court of Arches by Sir Robert Phillimore in the case of Boyd and others v. Phillips, better known as the "Exeter Reredos Case." The case was in appeal from the decision of the Bishop of Exeter, who had ordered the removal of the reredos. The Dean of Arches, after summing up, reversed the judgment of the Bishop, and an appeal will now be made against this decision to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

PARTY GOVERNMENT.

NOTHING outside the domain of real political controversy has ever led to so much dispute as the question whether or not the party system of government is serviceable to the State. Hume blundered in his attempts to define party; Burke spoke of it logically and in terms befitting a subject of paramount value and interest; Pope wrote of the man who gave up to party what was meant for mankind; and yet his great critic, Lord Lytton, called party the "sinews of freedom." No wonder, then, that even a statesman of Lord Palmerston's eminence should be distraught, and offer to a Scottish University of which he was Lord Rector at the time a substantial prize for the best essay on "The Influence of Party on the Development of the British Constitution." Evidently it had exercised some influence, whether for good or evil. Those who know best will readily admit that, in the main, that influence has been for good. And this opinion Mr. Froude, in his article on "Party Politics" (to which we referred the other day), seems to entertain. But he is no mere partisan. He can see as far as most men who stand on the same elevated ground, and would no more think of taking the article on "Church Parties" which appeared in the last Contemporary into account, than of voluntarily surrendering his rank as an historian. That kind of party is excluded. It is, perhaps, very well in its way, but that way is as foreign to the British Constitution as it is to the due and proper treatment of controversial theology. Mr. Froude is, fortunately, explicit enough on this head. In two sentences, in his last article in Fraser, he suggests the varied meaning that may be attached to such shibboleths as are repeated in the Contemporary article." If the advocates of different creeds continue to hate each other, the law has compelled the more intolerant to confess that the hatred shall not be carried into act. This is called religious liberty, and by some religious indifference." Quite averse to this is his dealing with the political party system. Here he feels at least that there is more tolerance if as much bitterness, and more freedom, sunshine, and fresh air. But, first, of all, let us see what are the views clearly set forth by Mr. Froude on this important and over-neglected subject.

"Party government," says Mr. Froude, "is the crown and glory of the British Constitution—is a peculiar structure, and involves a peculiar assumption . . . . . There are two lines of thought, two principles on which intelligent men form their judgment on political affairs, one or other of which every public man will adopt, but in no case will adopt both . . . . . It assumes again that the leading representatives of these opposing principles shall be men, if not of equal ability, yet of ability of a first-class order." Now, perforce, here we must pull up. Not only does colonial history deride this last assumption, but English history itself stands shamefaced at the pranks that have been played in the name of party only to place dullards and palavering incapables in the seat of authority. If such accidents have been rare they have been none the less fatal to the assumption, and, in sooth, they are too notorious to all who are likely to read this to require any particular reference to them. In a careless way, Mr. Froude alludes to the prejudiced rivalry between the "ins" and "outs," but as we purpose to touch on this by-and-bye, we hasten to snatch another link in his chain of statements. "The State, Mr. Froude afterwards asserts, "is split in two. Parties form which have an interest of their own beyond the interest of the community. The Conservatives, to prevent the alienation of their friends, defend the indefensible, and cling obstinately to abuses which they ought to abhor; while the Radicals invent new theories of government, and fly passionately at principles which lie at the root of social organization. The more sober-minded on either side rely on their antagonists to correct the excesses of their own extravagance, and instead of acting as a check each section, by its one-sidedness, excites and justifies the violence of the other. The result is a waste of power in a perpetual battle; the practical ability of statesmen is neutralized for all purposes of guidance and authority by their mutual antagonism, the State itself meanwhile drifting before the prevailing wind." Here two questions are involved—the morality of parties, and the intrinsic good or evil of the party system. It is at the latter we propose to glance at present; and it cannot be disputed that independent guerilla skirmishes have been the curse of Parliaments quite as much as the reliance on forbearing antagonists was the secret of Lord Palmerston's long tenure of power. Yet these are mere incidents in that conflict of parties which is originated and sustained by means beyond the reach of such feeble and temporary influences; for "the waste of power" were it perpetual and general, would sadly tarnish that "crown and glory of the British Constitution," as Mr. Froude describes party government. Moreover, that Constitution has been developed under the immediate influence of party, and its growth has never been retarded save when parties were feeble, listless, or overawed. The reason of this is obvious enough. Freedom of opinion is the fruitful mother of variety of opinion, and variety of opinion is the begetter of party. Where despotism prevails real party government is unknown, although it is equally true that even in Republics party has two often degenerated into faction. The notorious self-seeking of clamorous factions so long discredited public life in the United States, that those who in a wrong sense "wielded at will that fierce democracy" were unsparingly exposed, and chastised by more austere and honest citizens. The names of the different factions that now and again contended for the mastery are, however, so absurd that they give a ridiculous colouring to the very scandals symbolized by them. Yet, withal, the force of the party system—the contention for fixed and assured principles—has been felt in America, and felt, too, on one memorable occasion like the shock of a desolating earthquake. Since then the political varieties have been less apparent in that country, and the foundation of a truly grand public sentiment has been deeply laid. Nevertheless, it must be admitted, that, nowhere save in constitutional Governments is there found that healthful breeziness of opinion which imparts life and vigour to the party system, and renders it an aid, and not an obstacle to good government. Of all countries this is most, if not indeed exceptionally, true of England, and since 1688 it has been truer than ever before. Still we do not quite agree with Mr. Froude when he declares that the choice of the ruling party, or rather of the leaders of that party, was transferred at that epoch from the Crown to the House of Commons. A century elapsed before this signal change was made. The conflicts between the personal opinions of the monarch and the majority of the Commons were frequent, and not till 1784 was it definitively established that any such difference must be settled in favour of the latter. George the Third and Fox were bitter opponents, and to their quarrels we owe the change which the Coalition Ministry of 1783 precipitated. By it fell Fox, though for a time he weathered the storm, and defeated the King, who disliked him. "The precedent of 1784," as Lord Russell wrote twenty years ago, "establishes this rule of conduct—that if the Ministers chosen by the Crown do not possess the confidence of the House of Commons, they may advise an appeal to the people, with whom rests the ultimate decision. This course has been followed in 1807, 1831, 1834, and in 1841." Nor must it be forgotten that in Fox's time the struggle was between the Crown and the independent sections of Parliament. The Tories were then friendly to the King. The position of parties had been inverted; for during the reigns of the two first Georges the Whigs were Hanoverians, and the Tories Jacobites, and formed a country party in opposition to the Court. But this apart—in 1784 the hour of change had struck, and henceforth parties were to decide without the personal interference of the Sovereign. The Parliamentary Government was liberalised, and the party system was invigorated and fully recognised.

Here it is needless to do more than allude to the high-handedness which made the Tory party arrogant, or to the family cliques which weakened and ultimately destroyed the old Whig party. Nor do we pause to discuss those internal dissensions which compelled Burke to publish his famous "Vindication" and "Appeal," and which revealed the sympathy of the more advanced Whigs with the principles and actions of the French Revolution. The grand and significant fact is that the whole system of party warfare had been changed, and that two opposing camps had been formed, on whose banners were watchwords then full of meaning, and distinct, and that the officers, from the Premier to the "whip," were ardent and unslaking in their efforts to gain the victory. Where contests were so keen and exhaustive, it was, of course, to be expected that every question would be debated over and over again,—thus educating the rank and file in Parliament as well as informing the public out of doors. The Press was not then as omnipotent as it is now, nor were public meetings then so general; hence we may infer that in one way at least Parliamentary faction would do good. Again, it must be conceded that party attachment, which the publication of the principles and views of the leading statesmen would inevitably induce, was preferable to mere uninterested followings. Party is national in its bent and aims, faction is selfish in its origin and action. And, as Lord Russell says—"Party, instead of being the cause of corrupt and undue influence, is often a substitute for it. . . . The true party man finds in his own mind certain general rules of politics, like the general rules of morals, by which he decides every new and doubtful case. The belief that those principles are just enables him to withstand the seductions of interest and the ingenuity of projects; his conduct acquires somewhat of the firmness of integrity of wisdom."

Mr. Froude, though in the main, as we have seen, favourable to the party system, does not form such a high and sanguine estimate of it as did Burke and Lord Russell. "The two parties," he writes, "confront each other in the public arena as rivals always, and in time of excitement as enemies. The nation is assumed to be wiser than its leaders. The leaders are to see but one side of a public question; the nation to see both, and decide as it sees fit. . . . Such a system is, to say the least of it, extremely artificial. Able statesmen can usually see further than the multitude." This is all very true; but what is to be placed in lieu of a system which, if necessarily somewhat artificial, is an inseparable part of a Constitution which is in itself artificial. And although it is unquestionably beyond doubt that able statesmen can see further than the multitude, because of their greater intelligence, their fuller information and their special training, they cannot disregard the temper, or turn a deaf ear to the protestations or demands of the multitude. If wise and tactical they will hear in every great public outcry but the echo of those sentiments which they have warily and sedulously instilled into the public mind. Presumably able, astute and far-seeing they will study the signs of the times and turn to future profit the stream of opinion which they have guided into the safest channels. Indeed, the most successful English statesmen have been those who after long enunciating their views witness their effect on the national mind, and having them reflected back seem to follow the current which they have actually directed.

After this fling at its weak points, Mr. Froude goes on to tell us that "party government no doubt has its conveniences. It is useful to have jealous rivals on the watch to expose jobs and detect flagrant incapacity. . . . Yet if the Radicals are right, party government is near its end. They tell us that although they have been themselves defeated, their principles have not been defeated. There is now, they say, no real difference between Conservative and Whig. No one proposes to undo the past. Whoever governs England must govern in the same spirit and in the same line of progress. . . . If Radical principles have finally prevailed they will not long be left to be administered by Conservatives. The present Conservative leaders may retain an attitude of resistance during their own lives, but they will find no successor to prolong a hopeless struggle for a lost cause." Unfortunately, Mr. Froude here loses sight of one important feature in the supposed alteration. Even were the Radicals right it does not follow that "party government is near its end," for the supremacy of the present Radical party would be followed by the formation of another party more extreme and advanced. This is the natural and inevitable process, whether it be a process of growth or decay. Respecting the other points here referred to by Mr. Froude, it is a cheering maxim that what has been done must not be again stupidly undone, any more than what has not been done should be done rashly. A change of Ministry seldom, therefore, portends a startling reversal of policy; and whatever considerations may weigh most with the "ins" and "outs" matters little when left practically unknown. It was long since observed that a Whig was a Tory in office, and a Tory a Whig out of office; but the question of political consistency belongs properly to the subject of the morality of party.

THE OFFICE OF GOVERNOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—I have observed in the columns of the daily Press during the last fortnight various letters upon the anomalous position in which the colony is placed by the absence of the head of the Executive without the usual recourse to the services of an Administrator to perform the duties imposed by the Constitution upon the Governor, and which cannot be delegated by him to any person who does not act under a commission from her Majesty.

I expected that the conductors of the daily Press, assuming to guide the public mind on political subjects, would have treated this position from a purely Constitutional point of view; but, as they have been hitherto silent, I venture to submit a few remarks for the consideration of the community.

But before entering upon the constitutional view of this matter, I must correct an error which you have laid before the public in a paragraph published in your issue of the 24th instant. You there say:—"Our readers will remember that under the old regime of irresponsible government the Colonial Secretary acted in the absence of the Governor. When responsible government was introduced, this plan was obviously unsuitable, if for no other reason than for this, that the Colonial Secretary as Acting-Governor could not very well accept his own resignation as head of the Cabinet. It was therefore arranged that the officer commanding her Majesty's forces should act as Governor during any interregnum, in which capacity it will be remembered that Colonel Kempt acted for some time. When her Majesty's forces were removed, a fresh alteration became necessary, and it was then provided that the Chief Justice for the time being should act, under which arrangement Sir Alfred Stephen reigned at Government House after the departure of Lord Belmore, and under which arrangement also Sir James Martin would be Administrator should one be appointed. As Sir Hercules Robinson received his instructions to go to Fiji direct from the Secretary for the Colonies, it is reasonable to suppose that everything connected with his absence from the colony was taken into consideration, and if no special instructions on this point were sent it is to be presumed that none were considered necessary, and that the British Minister left the Governor and his Cabinet to act at their own discretion and under their powers."

Now this is a mistake. The Colonial Secretary never acted in the absence of the Governor, but the government was always administered by an officer bearing a commission under the sign manual. To go no further back than to the time of Sir Thomas Brisbane, between the departure of this Governor and the arrival of General Darling, the government was administered by Colonel Stewart, as Lieutenant-Governor, during a period of twelve days. On the departure of General Darling, Colonel Lindsay, as Lieutenant-Governor, assumed the government, which he exercised for six weeks, until the arrival of Sir Richard Bourke. On the departure of Sir Richard Bourke, Colonel Snodgrass administered the government from the 6th December, 1837, to the 23rd February, 1838, until the arrival of Sir George Gipps. On the departure of Sir George Gipps, Sir Maurice O'Connell held the office of Administrator for twenty-two days, until the arrival of Sir Charles Fitzroy. On the departure of Sir Charles Fitzroy, Sir William Denison at once assumed the government. During his tenure of office, responsible government, so called, was inaugurated, but still the old system was maintained; and on his leaving the colony the government was administered by Colonel Kempt, the senior officer in command of the Queen's troops. His tenure of office lasted from the 23rd of January, 1861, to the 21st March in the same year, when Sir John Young arrived. When Sir John Young departed, the government was assumed by Sir Trevor Chute, who came up from Melbourne for the purpose; but his administration only lasted for thirteen days, when it was closed by the arrival of Lord Belmore. Before the present arrangement was arrived at, and after the departure of the troops had left no officer in command, a commission was issued which left no officer in the administration of the government was vested by which the administration. Colonial Secretary was one. in three officials, of whom the unworkable, and in May, But this was soon discovered to be of State was for 1870, a despatch from the Secretary, Majesty's sign warded, covering a warrant under her authority to manual, conferring upon the Chief Justice or exercise the powers of government during the inability of the Governor. Under this commission Sir Stephen, then Chief Justice, assumed the government on the departure of Lord Belmore, and until the arrival of Sir Hercules Robinson. There can be no doubt that a commission conferring similar authority has been forwarded to the colony to provide for any contingency which might arise during the tenure of office of the present Governor.

It will thus be seen that up to the present time ample provision has always been made by her Majesty's Government for the administration of affairs during the absence from the colony of the Governor-in-Chief, and that such provision has been uniformly acted upon in this colony, and I will proceed to show how such provision is absolutely necessary.

In the Imperial Act 18 and 19 Vic., Cap. 54, authorizing assent to Constitution Act, the ninth clause provides "that in the construction of this Act the term Governor shall mean the person for the time being lawfully administering the government of New South Wales." For the present I will pass over the clauses in the Constitution Act which define the powers and duties of the Governor, but will proceed to the commission and instructions under which the Governor acts as the representative of the Sovereign. The commission granted to Sir Hercules Robinson varies considerably in form from those granted to previous Governors, but as it is the one in force it will be unnecessary to enter into the changes, as all previous commissions are necessarily revoked. The second clause authorises the Governor to keep and use the Great Seal of the colony. The third defines his power in reference to grants of lands. The fourth and fifth the same relative to the appointment of an Executive Council, of Judges and Justices, and other necessary officers, &c. The sixth confers authority to grant pardons and to remit penalties, fines, and forfeitures. The seventh gives power to suspend or remove from office. The eighth confers authority in respect to the summoning, proroguing, or dissolving the Legislative body. The ninth empowers the representative of the Sovereign to exercise all her powers in respect of granting marriage licenses, letters of administration, and probates of wills, and with respect to the custody and management of idiots and lunatics, and their estates. The tenth declares her Majesty's pleasure to be that in the event of his death, incapacity, or absence out of the colony, all and every the powers and authorities herein granted to the Governor, shall (if no Lieutenant-Governor has been appointed under the sign manual and signet) be vested in such person or persons as may be appointed by her Majesty under her sign manual and signet to administer the government of the same.

There is a proviso that no such powers or authorities shall vest in such person or persons until they shall have taken the oaths appointed to be taken by the Governor, and in the manner provided by the instructions accompanying the commission. The eleventh requires and commands all officers, &c., to be obedient aiding and assisting, to the Governor, "or in the event of his death, incapacity, or absence to such person or persons as may from time to time under the provisions of this our commission administer the government of our said colony."

We now turn to the instructions, which are also under the sign manual, and are addressed to the Governor, or in his absence to the officer administering the government. The first section declares her Majesty's pleasure to be, that the Governor "shall with all due solemnity cause our said commission to be read and published in the presence of the Chief Justice for the time being, or other Judge of the Supreme Court of the colony, and of the members of the Executive Council thereof; and then and there to take the oaths of allegiance and for the due execution of the office of Governor;" which oaths the said Chief Justice or in his absence any Judge of the Supreme Court shall, and he is hereby required to tender and administer to you."

Now, it will be observed, that the person or persons named in the commission under the sign manual and signet to administer the government of the colony in the absence of the Governor, are required to take these oaths and publish the commission in the same manner as is provided for the Governor; and all officers and other persons are commanded to assist in so doing. We may therefore ask why this has not been done, and why the colony has been left in the unfortunate position in which it is placed through the absence of the Governor?

But to return to the instructions. Passing by those which relate to the administration of oaths and the appointments to the Legislative Council, which were not likely to be acted upon under the circumstances, I will quote the fifth section, which appears to go to the root of the matter. This is as follows:—"We do hereby direct and enjoin that our said Executive Council shall not proceed to the dispatch of business unless duly summoned by your authority." The clause also points out the quorum which shall be necessary to enable the Council to act. The sixth section directs and enjoins the Governor to attend and preside at the meetings of the Executive Council, and also provides for such presiding if the Governor is prevented by some necessary or reasonable cause.

It would thus appear that although the Governor may delegate his power of presiding at the meetings of the Executive Council, he has no power to delegate the authority to summon the Council, so as to enable it to perform its functions. The whole machinery of government is therefore at a standstill at present.

The remaining sections I need not quote, as they relate to matters which could not occur except during the sitting of the Legislature; but the last is important, as it bears upon the present position. This clause runs as follows:—

"And whereas great prejudice may happen to our service, and to the security of our said colony by the absence of the Governor, you shall not upon any pretence whatever quit our said colony without having first obtained leave from us for so doing under our sign manual and signet, or through one of our principal Secretaries of State, except for the purpose of visiting any neighbouring colony for periods not exceeding one month at any one time, nor exceeding in the aggregate one month for every year's service in the colony."

Now, this section repeats the prohibition to be found in all previous commissions, but differs from them in the proviso. This has evidently been inserted to carry out the provisions of the circular despatch of the Duke of Buckingham of the 20th of June, 1868, as it is verbatim with the instructions contained in that despatch (which the Secretary of State states "her Majesty had been graciously pleased to sanction"), with this exception—the omission of this stipulation contained in the despatch, "arrangements being of course made that the public service shall suffer no injury during their absence, and half salary being paid, as usual, to the officer administering the government, in case the absence of the Governor shall exceed fourteen days."

It is, therefore, very evident that although permission is given to a Governor to absent himself from his government, for a month, by visiting a neighbouring colony, it was never intended or dreamt of that the provision made by her Majesty for the performance of the duties imposed upon her representative should be permitted to remain in abeyance during the absence of the Governor.

I will now turn to the Constitution Act, and endeavour to discover how the absence of a Governor, and the non-assumption of power by an Administrator, will affect the conduct of public matters.

I pass over the various clauses specifying the relation of a Governor to the Legislative bodies as not likely to arise during the present crisis. Excepting to point out the serious inconvenience which will occur should the Governor be unable to return before the 3rd November, the day upon which Parliament is summoned for the dispatch of business. Considering the position of the Executive Council as previously shown, there will be no authority to open Parliament, and none to authorize a further prorogation. Neither will I touch upon the powers conferred with regard to appointments, further than to glance at the difficulties which would arise should a Judge or Crown Prosecutor be prevented by illness, or any valid cause, from proceeding upon the ensuing circuits. But, by the provisions of this Act, no payments either on account of the Civil List or the public service can be made excepting on discharge of a warrant or warrants under the hand of the Governor; and the 55th clause enacts. "No part of her Majesty's revenue arising from any of the sources aforesaid shall be issued or shall be made issuable except in pursuance of warrants under the hand of the Governor of the colony, directed to the public Treasurer thereof."

The subject of the obligation on the Governor to sign warrants for the payment of moneys in a manner not directly authorised by law had in 1869 been brought under the notice of the Imperial Government by Lord Belmore, with a request to be favoured with instructions for his guidance. This was in the case of payments for unauthorised expenditure, and was in continuance of a reference to a previous Secretary of State. The point taken by the Governor in favour of these payments (for salaries of Public officers previous to appropriation) was that he considered this to be an "unforeseen contingency" of an urgent nature, and the course which has been pursued to be justifiable on the ground "that it was presumably sure to be subsequently sanctioned, joined to strong grounds of expediency even though short of actual necessity." Lord Belmore had also stated that as he "read the Constitution Act, an appropriation is not required to authorise the Governor to sign any warrant, but to authorise the Treasurer to act upon the Governor's warrant, no matter when or how long before signed."

In reply he is told by the Secretary of State, "I cannot concur with your lordship in your construction of the Constitution Act. . . . To require the Governor's warrant as a condition of the expenditure of public money, would be merely nugatory, if the Governor were at liberty to issue that warrant for expenditure not justified by law." Your lordship will not therefore be at liberty on any future occasion to repeat the step which you have adopted in this case.

I have quoted these despatches, not because the matter is strictly identical, because in the present case there will be no unauthorized expenditure, but because in consequence of the prolonged controversy which followed in this matter, the Audit Act was passed into law. Now the Audit Act prescribes the manner and form in which such warrants shall be issued, and is therefore now the law under which alone such payments shall be sanctioned. The 11th clause is as follows:—

"All moneys paid into such bank to the public account, as hereinbefore directed, shall be deemed and taken to be money lent by her Majesty to the person or persons to whom such bank may belong, and such moneys shall be drawn from the said account in the following manner only (that is to say): the Treasurer shall, as often as occasion may require, calculate the amount of moneys likely to become due and payable out of the said account during a period not exceeding one month next after such calculation, and shall thereupon prepare an instrument in the form contained in the second schedule to this Act, and shall set forth therein the said amount, classifying and arranging it (if for the public service) under the same divisions and heads that shall have been employed in the appropriation thereof, or stating (if not for the public service) the purpose for which it is payable, and after having signed such instrument, shall transmit the same to the said Auditor-General, such instrument, when countersigned by him in the form contained in the same schedule and approved by the Governor, as hereinafter directed, but not otherwise, shall be the warrant for the making of the order next hereinafter mentioned."

Now, it is currently reported that the Governor, before his departure, signed warrants not only for the expenditure of the month of September, but also for the supposed payments accruing during October. How the computation required to be made by the clause just quoted was effected, and how the Auditor-General could certify to the correctness of a document which could not be in existence, will require some explanation; and as Lord Granville states in his despatch of the 7th January, 1870—"upon the Governor is imposed the duty of seeing that no breach of the law is committed."

From the examination of the commissions, instructions, despatches, and Acts of Parliament, I trust I have shown that the step which has been taken in leaving the colony without an Administrator acting under her Majesty's sign manual is unconstitutional, and will probably be the cause of infinite confusion. It appears to be in violation of all precedents, and I think I have shown that from the precautions taken by the Imperial Government, to ensure the administration of the Government by an Imperial officer during even the temporarily; permitted absence of the Governor-in-Chief, it could not have been the intention of her Majesty's Government to place the colony in the anomalous position in which it is left.

If there are any specific instructions on the subject from the Secretary of State, it is the duty of the Executive to make them public, although, unless they are under the sign manual, they could not set aside the Royal Commission.

I think also it was clearly the duty of the Chief Justice, on ascertaining that a Commission was in existence conferring the necessary powers upon him, to have at once called upon the Executive Council to read and publish the same, and to require the attendance of a Judge of the Supreme Court to tender and to administer the required oaths. It is not a question as to who is to decide whether a dormant commission is to be called into vitality or not; it is a mere question of fact with regard to which there can be no dispute. The Governor's commission and his instructions inform him and the public that, in the event of his absence from the colony, the functions entrusted to him by that commission are to be performed by another person also appointed and authorized under the sign manual. The latter commission is acknowledged to be in the colony, and it is due to the community that they should be informed why her Majesty's commands should have been disregarded.

The Victory, from Manila, brings a cargo of raw sugars.

During the month ending 31st ultimo the Customs revenue collected at this port amounted to £64,419 6s. 5d. A smaller sum than has been received in any of the preceding months of this year, February and May excepted. The heads of revenue were as follow:—Month of August:—Spirits, £30,300 10s. 11d.; wine—still, £2732 10s. 1d., sparkling, £210 14s. 7d.; ale, porter, and beer—(in wood), £1892 11s. 6d., (in bottles), £1213 1s.; tobacco and snuff—£1574 11s. 4d.; unmanufactured, £4120 17s.; cigars, £891 2s. 1d.; tea, £4237 17s. 11d.; coffee and chicory, £721 12s. 9d.; sugar—refined £147 15s., unrefined £6552 12s. 2d.; opium, £363 9s. 5d.; rice, £519 0s. 1d.; dried fruits, £1826 12s. 2d.; nuts, £8 8s. 2d.; malt, £189 12s. 3d.; hops, £335 13s. 6d.; sarsaparilla, £55 19s. 9d.; specific duty, £8035 17s. 11d.; bonded warehouses, £161; gold, £38 15s. 2d.; pilotage, £751 18s. 10d.; harbour and light dues, £537 2s. 10d. As compared with the corresponding month of last year there is a decrease of £20,720, or over 30 per cent. The following table shows the receipts for the first eight months of 1873 and 1874.

The Import markets maintain the improved aspect noticed yesterday, there being an increasing inquiry for trade supplies. Breadstuffs are without alteration as regards Adelaide brands, but for Sydney mills prices are not very settled. Candles are a shade firmer, sales of Five-Medal at 9¾d. Kerosene oil weaker, some holders endeavouring to force sales at 1d. to 2d. decline on last week's prices. There is active inquiry for galvanized iron on the spot, some holders of G. O. asking as high as £10 for small quantities. Samples of the Janet Stewart's cargo of tea were on view at Messrs. Stubbs and Co.'s rooms to-day, and elicited favourable comment. The shipment will be sold to-morrow.

In the Stock and Share market there was only a moderate sale for Bank shares. Commercial, fully paid, were offered at a decline of 5s. on previous sales; Mercantile changed hands at 5¼, and New South Wales at 52¼; National of Queensland were firmer, sales at £6 to £6 1s. 6d. Steam shares without alteration except that in Australasian business was done at 22¾, an advance of 2s. 6d. Insurance, Gaslight, or Debentures were not dealt in.

The Melbourne Telegraph of Saturday reports of the local markets:—

The inquiry in the import markets still continues to show improvement, and the sales reported are more satisfactory. Breadstuffs are firm at the higher prices obtained yesterday. Flour to-day was sold, to the extent of 100 tons, at £12 10s to £12 12s 6d, in one instance £12 15s, terms accepted; small lots are salable at late rates. Wheat has been placed to-day at 5s 11d, and up to 6s has been obtained; some holders are looking for higher rates. Oats are firm, and wanted; Tasmanian placed at 5s 2½d. Maize hangs about 4s 11½d to 5s. Hops have had another rise of 2d; sales effected at the increased rate. Hardboards are in request, but holders will not now take 5s 10½d for quarters, but want 6s. In sugars there is little to name. On Monday Messrs. Fraser and Co. will offer some parcels of Mauritius. The arrival of the Onkel Brassig from Guadaloupe, W. I., is announced to-day. This vessel brings about 300 tons of sugars. From Batavia cable news has been received to-day, dated 24th instant, advising a further advance of 1s on sugars. Teas are moving with some briskness. The Mangerton's cargo has been dealt in to-day to the extent of some 1,000 packages at prices ruling up to 2s 1½d. The Kate's cargo is also attracting notice. The timber sales were large to-day; 458,053 feet T. and G. white pine ing cleared at 12s 9d for 6 x 1¼, 12 3d 6 x 1, 10s 6d lining, 8s 3d to 8s 6d for beaded, 7s 6d plain; red deals, 9 x 3, 3½d; 11 x 3, 4d to 5½d; battens, 7 x 3, 3¾d; 7 x 2½, 3d 11-16ths to 3½d. Other lines at good prices. In brandies we hear of further sales. With regard to present values, it may be mentioned that the prime cost of laying down a shipment of Hennessy's brandy now in the Bay amounts to 11s per gallon. At a meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Peters, Barnard, and Co., held this morning at Launceston, it was decided that the estate should be sequestrated, preliminary to its being wound up in the Bankruptcy Court. Messrs. Horne and Pyah were nominated as trustees and ad interim receivers.

We take the following from the Brisbane Courier of Saturday:—

Business in the import markets has not been over active during the week now closing. The northern trade up to the present shows little or no diminution in the activity which has ruled for the past month or so, and the vessels on the berth for the northern ports, independent of the usual steam communication, find little difficulty in meeting with quick dispatch, but the inland trade is again assuming its wonted inactivity, now that station requirements have been fully supplied. Stocks generally are equal to meet all immediate inquiries; one or two lines in Gilmore's stores are not over well supplied, and the market is bare of fine salt; while shipments of corrugated iron, if well assorted, would be readily quitted at satisfactory rates. Sugars, coming up freely to hand of late from the northern plantations, are held much in excess, and holders are endeavouring to ease the market by shipments to the southern colonies. In shipping circles, we note that the City of Aberdeen, barque, has cleared for London with a large cargo of produce, including heavy shipments of ingot tin and several parcels of the new clip of wool; and that the Ramsey, ship, is also a full vessel for London—both ta

IMPORTS OF SEWING-MACHINES FOR 1873.
The Imports of
the WHEELER and WILSON MACHINES show an increase of over 150 PER CENT., or Four times more than Singer's, as proved by the JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.
OVER ONE MILLION
in use, and the demand steadily increases.
The great success of the WHEELER and WILSON CO. is, without doubt, due to the Superior Excellence of their machines, and the LITTLE EXERTION
required to work them, which renders them the most suitable FOR FEMALES.
These qualities are owing to the Retetory Hook System on which they are constructed, and which combine with surprising durability and simplicity.
GREAT SPEED
It has been clearly proved that the genuine
WHEELER and WILSON MACHINE will do ONE-THIRD MORE WORK, and has double the durability of the Singer.
The new NUMBER SIX,
for Manufacturers, will sew any material from
MUSLIN to MOLESKIN, and LEATHERWORK of all kinds.
We warrant every genuine W. and W. Machine to give entire satisfaction.
The Best Hand Machine, £4.
TIME PAYMENTS arranged on the most liberal scale.

without any reserve.
Those few valuable BUILDING LOTS, adjoining the Railway Station and Reserve, Plan of which is now at the Rooms.
☞ Such is the happy facility with which building intentions, horicultural improvements, and cultivatable operations have been carried on in this quarter, that really without a person were resident here, or continually going backwards and forwards daily (as hundreds do), one might just as well attempt describing town allotments for sale at "Ningpo," as to picture forth properly the rising superiority of the Burwood district.
Lithographs issued prior to sale.
Terms liberal.

By order of the Executors of the estate of the late Miss Little.
To Capitalists, Speculators, Builders, others.

MAGNIFICENT FREEHOLD ESTATE situate in MACLEAY and VICTORIA STREETS, to which streets it has large frontages, and comprising an area of 2 ACRES 2 ROODS and 13 PERCHES (more or less), with the elegant and substantial mansion and out-offices erected thereon, known as ROCKWALL HOUSE,
now in the market
FOR POSITIVE SALE IN ONE LOT.
TITLE—Apply to R. Yeomans, Esq., solr, 93, Elizabeth-street. TERMS at Sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO have received instructions from the Executors in the estate of the late Miss Little to sell by public auction, at MORT'S ROOMS, PITT-STREET, 11 o'clock, THIS DAY, 30th September,
That magnificent freehold known as the comprising an area of 2 ACRES 2 RODS and 13 PERCHES of land in one of the best positions in DARLINGHURST, and having the following frontages and depths:—266 feet (more or less) to MACLEAY-STREET, by a depth of 420 feet (more or less); 33 feet (more or less) to VICTORIA-STREET, by a depth 520 feet (more or less).
ROCKWALL ESTATE
On which is erected a commodious and highly finished mansion, built in a most substantial manner of stone, with slated roof, and containing:
IN BASEMENT, large kitchen, fitted with range, cellar, wash-house, &c.
ON GROUND-FLOOR, elegant drawing-room, dining, and breakfast room, butler's pantry, &c.
ON FIRST FLOOR are five large rooms and bathroom. There is a wide flagged verandah running all round the house.
WATER AND GAS ARE LAID ON.
The out-offices are built of brick, with shingled roof, and comprise one large and four small rooms, laundry, &c., &c.
The grounds are tastefully laid out in rubbery, flower garden, &c., with large grass paddock, and are sufficiently extensive to secure perfect retirement; at the same time, the property is within easy walking distance of the business centres of the city.
☞ RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO in bringing so important a property into the market on POSITIVE SALE, would invite the special attention of those who are on the look out for investments to the sterling character of the one now offered to public competition. No question can possibly arise as to its position, surrounded as it is on every side by first-class estates. It possess in addition every possible convenience as a city family residence, combined with the most perfect retirement and it is but seldom that opportunities occur of securing an estate so near the centre of the city of such an area whilst, should the intention be to subdivide, no better or more profitable speculation could be found than the purchase of the
the land being specially adapted for that purpose.
The instructions to effect a sale are most imperative, and the property will be sold in
ONE LOT.
Cards to view may be obtained from the auctioneers.
Plan on view at MORT'S ROOMS, Pitt-street.

STRAWBERRY HILL.

VALUABLE BLOCK of LAND, situate in COLLEGE-STREET, STRAWBERRY HILL, being part of MARYLEBONE ESTATE.

WEDNESDAY, 7th October,
That VALUABLE BLOCK of LAND, being part of the Marylebone Estate, having 135 feet frontage to COLLEGE-STREET, STRAWBERRY HILL, and 135 feet frontage to a Road.
☞ This allotment occupies a very choice position in a rising locality, and is well worth the consideration of any one on the look-out for a good building site.

POSITIVE SALE.

MAGNIFICENT CITY FREEHOLD, situate in
MARGARET-STREET, WYNYARD-SQUARE, comprising that splendid block of building, the property of
THE LIVERPOOL AND LONDON AND GLOBE FIRE AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

TITLE—Apply to JAMES NORTON, Esq., Solicitor, Elizabeth-street.

TERMS at Sale.

RAYNES, TREEVE, and CO. have received instructions from the LIVERPOOL and LONDON and GLOBE FIRE and LIFE INSURANCE CO. to sell by public auction, at MORT'S ROOMS, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 7th October,
That magnificent Freehold Property situate in MARGARET-STREET, WYNYARD-SQUARE, comprising the premises the property of, and now in the occupation of
THE LIVERPOOL AND LONDON AND GLOBE FIRE AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, built in the most substantial manner, with cut stone front and slated roof, the side and back walls being first-class brickwork, and containing on

GROUND FLOOR—
Large public hall, 20 x 10
Inner hall, 20 x 10
Lobby
Public office, 32.11 x 20
Secretary's room, 21.6 x 20
Strong room, 8.6 x 11.6.

FIRST FLOOR—

Five large rooms.

In the yard, at the rear of the main building, are large kitchen, fitted with range, copper, 4 rooms, lavatory, bath-room, &c.
Gas and water laid on.
The property has only recently been put in thorough order.
☞ The exceptional circumstances under which this first-class city property has been brought forward for public competition should render this sale worthy the special attention of the capitalists or public companies of this city; possessing as it does all the requirements of an office for a large mercantile establishment or public company, it cannot fail to command such a return by way of rental as must render it a highly profitable investment. Comment as to its position is needless; the improvements which are being carried out from day to day in the immediate locality point clearly to its increasing importance. It is only necessary for the auctioneers to add that the sale is bona-fide, and that they invite the closest inspection, feeling sure that but few properties in this city can stand the test better.

PORT HACKING.

ATTRACTIVE FAVOURABLY-SITUATED FARM of 400 ACRES, fronting the waters of Port Hacking, near the proposed SYDNEY AND ILLAWARRA RAILWAY, and having the only sheltered deep-water frontage to the harbour.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from OWEN BYRNE, Esq., the grantee, to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on FRIDAY, 2nd October, at 11 o'clock,
That valuable grant of 400 acres of land, situated at the south side of Port Hacking, parish of Wattamolla, county of Cumberland; bounded on the north by the waters of Port Hacking, on the east by the Government reserve, and on the south and west by Crown lands.
It is distant by water about 20 miles from the Circular Quay. The Government reserve takes in the South Head and the first sandy beach, and this grant embraces the adjoining shore and the second sandy beach. It is a picturesque and valuable block of land, with a constant creek or watercourse running through the centre. It is adapted for agricultural or grazing purposes, being well-watered in all seasons. It is the best fishery near Sydney for seine, hook and line, with the only sheltered deep-water frontage for jetties or wharfs, and is also admirably adapted for a yacht station. The adjacent shoals are well supplied with a variety of shell fish. It is in the neighbourhood of coal-bearing land, and is most probably also rich with coal and other valuable minerals. The adjoining run is unbounded, and the coast scenery delightful. The road by land from Illawarra, Sydney, and Appin is via Little Bulli (Stanwell Park).
Title, deed direct from the Crown. Terms, cash.
Plan on view at the Rooms.
